

I highly recommend that the FCC should not propose any legislation that would lessen the Indiana Telephone Privacy Law. I experienced at least 5-7 calls per night, and sometimes up to an additional 6 calls during the day while I am away to work. Since I signed up for this protection my phone only rings for people I really want to talk to, instead of one telemarketer after another.